Northern New Mexico Gas Company's Outdoor Line Protection Plan (Line-Pro)

Problems with your propane gas lines can occur at anytime and anywhere outside your home. A propane gas line problem can be extremely tricky to deal with and expensive to fix. Underground lines can deteriorate due to chemicals and fertilizers in the soil. Roots from nearby trees or shrubs can also cause damage to your lines. In addition to the risk of natural wear, lines can be accidentally damaged when digging, snowplowing, or during routine yard maintenance. Unfortunately in these situations the repair and maintenance of these underground propane lines is solely the responsibility of the homeowner. Repairing your outdoor propane lines can be very costly and inconvenient. With one phone call to Northern New Mexico Gas Company however, you can be assured of immediate, LP-Qualified Service Technicians responding to your emergency repair call. The Outdoor Line-Pro gives you total protection from the expense of any propane yardline damage.
